

INDEX

TO THE

SIXTH VOLUME OF THE DUBLIN REVIEW.

- Acts providing for the education of the Irish poor, 79, 81.
- Agrarian disturbances in Ireland, causes of them, 466.
- Alexander, (Pope) 306.
- Alfred, his establishment of schools and academies in England, 179.
- Altar in San Spirito, 120.
- Australia, (South) principles of the Colony there, 450—situation of its principal town, 451—its size, 455, land-jobbing there, 457—land-surveying, 458—price of labour, 459—spirit of the Colonists, 463.
- Apostolic almoner, an office at Rome, 128.
- Appendix to Dodd's History, containing Henry's letters, &c., &c., 415.
- Architecture, study of it in Italy, 7.
- Assisi, more a sanctuary than a city, 29.
- Bale, his play of Kynge Johan, 436.
- Bennett, his original dispatch concerning Henry the Eighth's divorce, 414.
- Bordeaux, its remonstrance against the prohibitory system, 374.
- Bourbons, their restrictions upon trade, 363.
- Braham, his singing, 532.
- Brockedon's Road Book, 1, 16.
- Bulls of the Pope, Tierney concerning them, 411.
- Bulwer, (Sir Edward) his oratory, 160.
- Campion, Catholic writer, 398.
- Catalani, her singing, 533.
- Catholicism, not unfavourable to philosophical speculations, 31—catholicism in France, Theiner's view of it, 165.
- Catholic clergy, chief inciters of the struggles of the Poles, 347.
- Catholic bishops, their resolutions concerning education, 107.
- Casimir, (John) his address to the Polish parliament, 336.
- Census of the Poles, 348.
- Ceremonies of Easter week, 469.
- Charity, that of Christianity, 115—wonderful extent of it at Rome, 131.
- Charlemagne, his era, 174—his constitutions approved by the council of Rome, 177.
- Christendom, different periods in its history, 66.
- Christian mysticism of Görres, 58.
- Christian confraternities attendant on hospitals, 122.
- Church, (Irish) its conduct to the Irish poor, 95.
- Cinquecent, 23.
- Civilization, (European) second period of it, distinguished for reforms of the church, 68—third period, 69.
- Colleges, necessity for supporting them, 485.
- Commissioners of railroads, their qualifications, 235.
- Confraternities, Roman, 129.
- Cooper, his novels, 490, 501, 508—his account of America, 491—his motives for avoiding all mention of American slavery, 528.
- Corporal of Bolsena, 10.
- Cotton manufactures, (French) carried on at what disadvantage, 362.
- Council of Trent, its decrees concerning seminaries, 192.
- Crime, the comparative amount of it in England and Ireland, 270—causes for that in Ireland, 273.
- D'Alton, (Mr.) quotation from, 80, 83.
- Dodd, his history of England, 395—his notices of Catholic writers, and Catholic confessors and martyrs, 398—Biographical notice of him, 401—first appearance of his work, 402—its reception by Catholics, 403—his charitable dispositions, 405—his means of getting at papers, 409.
- Drama, whether or not declining, 529—defects in composition, 537.

- Edgecumbe, Lord—his reminiscences, 530.
 Education in Ireland, 74—Stat. 28, Hen. 8; as to, 78—Stat. 12, Eliz.; 81—7 Wm. 3; 81—12 Geo. 1, ib.—funds necessary for that purpose; 97—Wyse's reports on it, 98—its importance, 484.
 Election of Popes—regulations concerning, 304.
 England and its constitution described by Görres, 47—its analogy with that of the Church, 50.
 Europe of Görres, 31.
 Eve Effingham—story and characters of it, 510, 517, 519, 522.
 Examiner—extract from, respecting railways, 268.
 Execution—first in South Australia, 464—similar ones in Canada, 465.
 Fano—account of, 19.
 Follett, Sir William—extracts from his speeches, 145.
 Foundation-schools in Ireland, 74.
 Foundling Hospital, Rome, 123.
 France—first European nation to change its constitution and established absolutism, 41—causes of its revolution, 42—its condition from 1789 to 1792, under the despotism of Napoleon, 45—what is wanting to give her perfect freedom, 46—its present political situation, 339—state of its landed interest, 364—dissensions between Northern and Southern, 367—state of its manufactures, 378—of its customs, 382.
 Froude—extract from his letters, 417—his prejudices, 418—his state of mind, 420—his austerities, defect in them, 422—his tendency to Catholicity, 424—his opinions on Church authority, 431.
 Garrande de Coulon—his statement respecting the Poles, 339.
 Geraldine, 3rd vol.—story of it, 483.
 Gerbert—his life, 291—his energetical letter, 296—character of his pontificate, 297—his learning, 298.
 Gibbon, upon the Slavonians, 326.
 Gladstone, (Mr. W. E.)—his oratory, 161.
 Görres—life and writings of, 31—his Europe and the revolution, 38—its style and character, 72.
 Gospel, how spread in England, 487.
 Gregory VII—his life, 302—his death, 315—character and conduct, 316—his sincerity, 322.
 Grey, (Sir George)—his oratory, 161.
 Griffith, (Dr.)—his system of reclaiming bog land, 475.
 Guide books—unsatisfactory, 5—how to amend them, 14.
 Harpsfield and Harding—able Catholic writers, 398.
 Harvey, (D. W.)—his speeches, extracts from them, 154.
 Henry VIII—his character, from Dodd's history, 407—his struggle with the Pope, 311.
 Henry VII—act passed in his reign for encouragement of husbandry.
 Hildebrand—his election, 307—his letters to King Henry, 308.
 History—Ecclesiastical and civil, 280.
 History, Dodd's—its title, 396—how divided, 397—its merits, 406—quotation from, 407.
 Hock, (Dr.)—his work on Pope Sylvester, 289.
 Homeward bound, story and characters of it, 493.
 Hospitals of Rome, 119.
 Howick, (Lord)—his oratory, 160.
 Ignatius, (St.)—his order instituted, to cope with Protestantism, 187.
 Instruction,—religious works upon it, 288.
 Inventory of plunder of religious houses, 414.
 Ireland—means for its improvement, political reforms, extension of cultivation of the soil, 470—different acts for its benefit, 471—effect of the reclamation of land, 472—its trade with England, 474—its waste lands, 475—difficulties in the way of their reclamation, 477.
 Italian Guides and Tourists,—1
 Johan, (Kynge) elevated into a saint, 437—conduct of the play, 438.
 Kilkenny railway company, 233.
 Kosciusko—his manifesto and regulations, 336
 Kyle, Mr.—quotation from, 85.
 Land-jobbing in America, 518.
 Languedoc—its canal now to be completed 368.
 Leo XII—anecdote concerning him, 120.
 Literature—German, 277.
 Lithuania—its close union with Poland, 343.
 Lord John Russell—his oratory, 138
 Lynch—his work on the employment of Irish labourers, 473—measures suggested by him for consideration of Parliament, 477

- Maciejowski—his work on the Slavonians, 327.
- Malibran—her first appearance, 538.
- Manufactures—of several Italian towns, 28.
- Maria Nuova, Church of—paintings contained in it, 19.
- Matilda, (Countess)—her character, 314.
- Monopolies—their causes and effects, 371.
- Monte di Pietà at Rome, 127.
- Mores Catholici—Mr. Digby's, contains refutation of calumny, 116.
- Morpeth, Lord—his oratory, 160.
- Mysticism, Catholic—in the third volume of Geraldine, 481.
- Mystic of Görres.
- New York—fire there, 519.
- O'Connell—his speeches, extracts from, 140.
- O'Connell, (Mr. M. J.)—his oratory, 161.
- Onofri—account of, 22.
- Opera—its company last season, 541—public taste altered concerning them, 542—choruses in different operas, 543—manager, 544—company this season, 544.
- Orators in Parliament, 133.
- Order of Oratorio, of St. Philip Neri—its expediency for England, 429.
- Orvieto—paintings and cathedral at, 9.
- Oscott—new college there, 488.
- Ospizio Apostolico, at Rome—its foundation and excellence, 124.
- Otho, (King) his letter to Gerbert, 294.
- Paintings—where many are to be found, 26.
- Palmerston, (Lord)—his speeches, extracts from them, 156.
- Pambour, Mr.—his observations on railways, 214.
- Pasta, 538.
- Peel, (Sir Robert)—his oratory, 134.
- People—their undue power in America, 524.
- Pesaro—eligible situation, 18.
- Peter Damian, (St.)—the Pope detains him in the world, 320.
- Pietro Perugino— anecdote and letters of, price paid for his works, 13.
- Platonists, (new)—their opinions, 64.
- Poland—the invasions it resisted, 329—grandeur of its nobility, 331—its serfs, 334—services rendered by the Catholic Church, 342—its union with Lithuania, 343,—at one period one of the first nations in Europe, 344—final dissolution, 346—calculation of its inhabitants, 356.
- Poles—middle class of, 332—Catholicism their safeguard, 339—their religion, 340—the nobility renounce all privileges, 347—character of their peasantry, 348—their habitations, 349—their condition, 352— anecdote concerning it, 354—their prospects, 357.
- Poor-law at length extended to Ireland—its results, 471.
- Porto di Fermo—delightful residence, 17.
- Protestant—constant succession of writers on Church History, 396—style of those histories, 397—their writers on controversy, 398—their persecution of Catholics, 399.
- Protestantism—unfavourable to historic science, 33.
- Protestantism in England—Theiner's view of it, 164.
- Public institutions—at several Italian cities, 29.
- Puritani—the opera, 536.
- Quin (Mr. Charles), quotation from, 83.
- Rafaele, inscription on his house, 24—pictures of, 25.
- Railways, description of them, 210—resistance upon them, 212—improvements upon them, 219—cost of railway carriage, 225—the lines they should follow, 229—by whom they should be executed, 231—profit upon different lines, 237—improvements suggested, 243—whether or not government should interfere to construct them, 248—how to combine public aid and private enterprise in their construction, 259.
- Ravenna, account of, 21.
- Recluses of the desert, models of monastic institutes, 63.
- Reformation, changes effected by it in society, 40—its effects on Poland, 344.
- Religious orders, extracts from Görres concerning them, 71.
- Rimini, cathedral of, paintings there, 20.
- Road, finest, south of the Alps, 26.
- Rodolph proclaimed king, 313.
- Rome, writers concerning her, 111—her charitable institutions, 114-17.
- Russia, her government, 66—her nobles, 57.
- San Marino, account of, 21—republic of, ibid.
- Schools, reports of those in Ireland, 74.
- Whigs realized the Tory plans concerning them, 75—intended by the Tories for proselyting, 76—returns concerning them, 80—neglect of the clergy to

- maintain them, 83..state of diocesan schools, 86..charter schools, 87..royal schools, 89..the funds received by different schools; their proselyting character, 93..method of providing for their erection, 100..and regulation, 101..their religious teachers, 104.
- Sculpture, study of it in Italy, 9.
- Seminario Ecclesiastico, by Theiner, 167
- ..their utility to the Church, 169..established in Europe, 170..seminaries of France in the eleventh century, 180..their disappearance in the twelfth century, 181..their power of propagating the faith, 194..their persecution in England, 198..their incorporation the result of it, 200..seminaries in England, 201.
- Shiel—his speeches; extracts from them, 150.
- Sinigaglia, its great fair, 27.
- Singers, sopranos wanting, 540.
- Slavonians, their discontent, its character, 325..their history, 328, 330.
- Social qualifications, hankering after them in America, 521.
- Société pour la Propagation de la Foi, 486.
- Society in America, 511.
- Sorrento, Mrs. Starke's prejudices for, 17.
- Spain, as described by Görres, 52..causes of its decline, 54..its constitution, 55.
- Spenser (Edmund), his view of the state of Ireland, 468, 470.
- Stanley (Lord), extracts from his speeches, 146.
- Stapleton, Catholic writer, 398.
- Starke's Travels, 1.
- Staszye', his liberality to his Polish countrymen, 338.
- Stephen Batory (King), his address to the Poles, 345.
- Theiner (Dr. Augustine), his conversion, 163.
- Tierney, quotation from his preface to Church History, 398..his arrangement of the materials of Dodd's History, 405..original dispatch in his possession, 414.
- Trade, high board of, how composed, 371.
- Travels, motives for them, 1.
- Treaty, commercial, between France and England, 357..its importance, 361.
- University of Paris, its establishment, 182.
- Universities, founded by Charlemagne, 176; liable to abuses, 183.
- Urbino, country of Raffaele, 23..palace of its duke, ibid.
- Voigt, his Lives of the Popes, 324.
- Weedal (Dr.), extract from his discourse, 167.
- Wickliff, extract from Tierney's History concerning him, 410.
- Wood (Mr.), his work upon railways, 227.

ERRATA.

- Page 36, four lines from the bottom, for "Germany and the revolution," read "Europe and the revolution."
- 41, line 18, for "dignitaries," read "dignities."
- 53, line 22, for "theoretic," read "theocratic."
- 63, line 6, for "unchained," read "chained."
- 68, line 3, for "martyrdom," read "mysticism."
- 74, line 1, omit "political."

